

I am a native Oklahoman and grew-up in Cordell in rural southwestern Oklahoma. I graduated high school from the Oklahoma School of Science and Mathematics and then attended college at the University of Oklahoma. I continued my education at the University of Oklahoma College of Medicine where I obtained my medical degree, followed by pediatric residency at the Children's Hospital of Oklahoma. I completed 3 years of neurology residency at UT Southwestern in Dallas, TX followed by a one year neurophysiology fellowship and a one year epilepsy fellowship. Since 2013, I have been practicing as a pediatric epileptologist at Children's Hospital of Oklahoma where I serve as the OU medicine epilepsy director and the medical director for the ketogenic diet program. I live in Edmond with my husband and 16 year old son and twin 7 year old twins.
