

Right now in Tulsa, all of the students are quite busy! 3rd years are at the tail end of their clinical rotations and are prepping for graduation and board exams. Most 2nd years have started their second clinical rotation while 1st years are hard at work in second semester of classes. The faculty is hard at work with each of the classes and has just received all the applications for class of 2017 School of Community Medicine PA Program.

The 2nd and 3rd years are in the midst of clinical rotations. The 3rd years are only a couple of months away from completing their schooling and graduating from the School of Community Medicine. While graduation and board exams come with a high amount of pressure, they are all ready and excited to begin practicing as certified PAs. The 2nd years are now becoming more comfortable in clinical rotations and are learning more they could have imagined being out in the hospitals and clinics. They are also enjoying being in Bedlam evening clinic practicing their skills while also helping out the 1st years.

The 1st years second semester is in full swing. October is full of midterms and their first standardized patients. They had three exams during PA week this year, but were still able to hold a bake sale and also cook a meal for the Ronald McDonald house. Throughout the semester, they have been going to high schools throughout the area to promote the School of Community Medicine and the PA profession.

We are excited about everything that is happening at the School of Community Medicine and look forward to finishing out 2014 in strong fashion!

(SAAPPA officers for the class of 2016 at White Coat Ceremony: Tuan Huynh, Taylor Long, Neilee Wood, Allison Eldridge, Martha Fritz, Angela Zanotti, Bret Gunther)

(1st years Brittney Pugh and Michelle Knoepfel working on their skills in Physical Diagnosis lab)